It is a great pleasure for me to welcome all readers of the new Journal “Archives of Neuroscience”, the official journal of the International Neuroscience Institutes (INI) Hannover - Germany, Iran - INI and China - INI.

The goal of this journal is to build a bridge between all basic and clinical neurosciences. We hope having the possibility to transfer the respective research experiences to other disciplines in an interdisciplinary forum. Both research and review articles are being and will be published. The major bulk of the articles will be chosen from those topics, which have a certain clinical application to the benefit of our patients.

In the meantime I can count on the interest from all over the world and different neuroscience disciplines to join our journal. Our goal is to optimize the review process and ensure rapid evaluation of the manuscripts. We are proud to announce that the International Editorial Board will be composed of leading world neuroscientists, representing all continents.

We will try our best to extend the number of this primarily quarterly journal in future to have the opportunity to accept more articles.

Once again I would like to welcome all of you to our new scientific platform! I would like in particular to address and invite our young researchers in neurosciences to use this platform to present their research results to a worldwide auditorium.
